Minimum wages for a full-time position

Minimum wages for a full-time position, i.e. 173.33 hours worked per month (40 hours per week), are to be as follows for an employee who has reached the age of 18 and has worked for at least six months in the same company (a minimum of, however, 900 hours):

1 January 2016..... ISK 260,000 per month

- Every month, extra compensation shall be paid on top of the wages of those employees who do not attain the above income. In this connection, wages mean any payments, including any type of bonus payments or allowances and extra pay, that accrue within the period of the above working hours. The extra compensation paid to ensure minimum wage income is not reduced as the result of any contractual wage increase due to increased education for which the parties to the agreement are jointly responsible.
- Pay for overtime work carried out in excess of the 173.33 hours per month and payments to cover expenses paid are not included in this context.

Holiday bonus

The holiday bonus for each holiday reference year (1 May to 30 April), based on full-time employment, is to be as follows:

For the reference year beginning on 1 May 2015: ISK 42,000 For the reference year beginning on 1 May 2016: ISK 44,500 For the reference year beginning on 1 May 2017: ISK 46,500 For the reference year beginning on 1 May 2018: ISK 48,000

Starting wages are based on the person having reached the age of 20 years, but wages for employees under the age of 18 are based on the year that the person reaches the relevant age.

When assessing length of service, other jobs shall be evaluated for length of service on the basis of biological age so that length of service will not be duplicated when determining wages.

After two periods of employment or similar work experience after the age of 18, the worker will move from wage category 5 to wage category 6.
